

Our Energy Policy

Our company Nutrilo GmbH in Cuxhaven/Germany belongs to the PHW-Group and specialises in the manufacturing of dietary supplements.

We are committed to continuously and systematically optimising the utilisation of the energy carries used by us with the development of an energy management system in accordance with DIN EN ISO 50001.

The aim is to reduce the specific energy consumption over the long term, taking into account the financial and technical possibilities of our company, and to increase the energy efficiency of our processes.

For the implementation of this task the following is ensured by the company, amongst other things:

- Provision of the necessary financial, human and technical resources
- Systematic recording and evaluation of the energy aspects and energy data
- Determination of the selected energy saving targets and the programs required for this
- Provision of the necessary information for checking the implementation of the established programs and the status of the set targets
- Regular information and further training of all employees who effect energy consumption
- Motivation of all employees with respect to the implementation of the energy targets and programs

The company management is committed to subjecting the energy policy to regular checks and updating and complying with the applicable legal obligations and requirements.
