As a contract manufacturer for first-class food supplements and functional food, we accompany our partners from the development of their individual formulation to the finished product.

A high level of expertise and purchasing competence ensure that only raw materials and recognized active ingredients of the highest quality are used and that a wide variety of flavors is available to turn your idea into a high-quality product in the dosage form of your choice as a tablet, capsule, drinking powder or direct powder and to package it according to your specifications.

The partner decides the production level to be supplied by NUTRILO. Everything is possible, right up to the finished, labeled and packaged end product.
